Hospital gets beds if NDP successful

Local NDP candidate Dennis Drainville chatted with party leader Bob Rae at the nomination meeting.

Dennis Drainville wins NDP nomination by acclamation

by Jay Kerr-Wilson

If the New Democratic Party forms the next government in Ontario, it will build the 18-bed chronic care facility proposed for the Haliburton Hospital, says party leader Bob Rae.

Rae made this commitment while speaking at the nomination meeting of the Victoria-Haliburton NDP provincial riding association.

"We can't allow health care in this part of Ontario to deteriorate so people can't have the health care they've come to expect," said Rae. "The Liberals are up to their old games."

The expansion of the Haliburton Hospital was approved by the Ministry of Health in 1987 but has since been put on hold pending the outcome of a study into Haliburton County's long-term health care needs.

Speaking to reporters after the speech, Rae said if the NDP wins the next provincial election they will look at the work done by the committee conducting the study as well as going ahead with the chronic care facility.

"No study is going to dictate reality," said Rae. "There has to be an institutional base that provides care."

Before any other improvements to local health care can be implemented, Rae said there has to be more beds made available. "It's an illusion to think you can do all these other things without additional beds," he said. "It's completely illusory."

He said providing health care in rural Ontario has turned into a "major

Ministry clamps down on resorts expansions

by Jay Kerr-Wilson

Resorts along the north shore of Lake Kashagawigamog are being asked to take a financial gamble in order to hook onto the proposed new sewer line.

Dysart council has provincial approval to construct the resort sewage line and expand the sewage treatment plant, but resorts will not be allowed to expand until a water quality study of the lake is completed.

At the last meeting of Dysart council, Terry O'Neill, a representative of the Ministry of the Environment's district office, explained the conditions of the province's approval.

O'Neill said the construction of the resort sewer line and expansion of the sewage plant can proceed immediately. Once these two projects are completed, the resorts can hook their existing facilities into the system.

However no expansion of any resorts on the line will be approved until a water quality study determines whether or not the lake can handle the additional effluent.

Councillor Murray Fearrey said this means the resorts will have to borrow money to hook on to the system with no guarantee they will be able to expand their operations.

O'Neill admitted the process being followed for the Dysart project is "backward" to the normal route followed by the ministry.

"Before you add a load to the lake chain

we have to know if it can accept it," said O'Neill.

Council also discovered they will have to play a more active part in the water monitoring procedure than they first thought.

One of the conditions of the Certificate of Approval for the plant expansion is that the municipality will monitor the water quality in the north basin of Lake Kashagawigamog.

Because the township lacks the expertise to carry out such testing, council proposed that the analysis of lake water should be done by the ministry.

However, O'Neill said the ministry is not

Moore still opposes arena law suit

Minden's Reeve has repeated his opposition to the township's lawsuit against the companies involved in the construction of the arena.

The municipality is suing the builders because calcium placed in the mortar used for construction has eroded the steel girders which make up the arena's frame.

At last Thursday's council meeting Reeve Ray Moore

read a prepared statement re-affirming his opposition to the suit.

Moore said he's opposed the lawsuit since its inception in January 1989 and called such litigation, "a money-making process for lawyers on both sides."

Noting the fact that council has pressed on with the lawsuit, Moore said his comments were not meant to prejudice the proceedings.

Recently Deputy-Reeve Bern Berry told The Times that the township is hoping for a settlement out of court, but if it goes to trial the case may not be settled for a couple of years.

The township has budgeted $340,000 for work on the arena this year and Berry said the repairs will go ahead regardless of the lawsuit's progress.

Berry said he doesn't know how much money the case could end up costing the municipality in legal and engineering fees and he refused to say how much has been spent on the lawsuit so far.

In order not to jeopardize the Minden's case, Berry said the township's lawyer has recommended that details of the suit not be discussed in public.

Berry said council intends to press on with the lawsuit and, given the fact calcium was used in the mortar, feels there is a good chance the township could win.

Minden will remain the county town

by Jay Kerr-Wilson

A deal has been struck to maintain Minden's status as the County Town.

A meeting between county and township representatives last Tuesday was successful in securing an arrangement to have the county offices moved to a site near the Minden arena instead of to the Allsaw Flats.

Warden Don Shortreed says the deal is now in the hands of the respective lawyers and will be presented to County Council at this Wednesday's meeting.

"Everybody seems to be in agreement," said Shortreed. "It looks pretty good. It will be good for the county and good for Minden."

Although the Allsaw location has the advantage of being more central within the county and having more space for expansion, Shortreed says the Minden site is serviced by water and sewer and is better for the township.

Shortreed said the county will keep the property it purchased on Highway 121 at the Allsaw Flats for future consideration and long-term planning.

The new arrangement is the result of negotiations between Minden councillors and the county after the township voiced its opposition to moving the county offices out of the village.

The county's new home will be a five- or six-acre lot with access from North Water Street.

Flipping for the flyers

Stanhope Reeve Harry Davis tries his hand at the culinary arts at the airport's fly-in brunch last Sunday. Airport Manager Mike Carey organized the brunch as a way of showing off the new airport to pilots and guests from outside airports. Brunch consisted of several breakfast choices and barbecued hamburgers and hotdogs for those of a heartier appetite.

Airport brunch a flying success

by Carol Moffatt

A small plane cruises in for a landing through the shimmering heat on Stanhope's newly paved runway. About seventy five planes came and went through the brunch-hours. Several float planes were directed to Maple Lake for landing and throughout the day planes were lined up in the sky for landing clearance.

The skies were more alive than ever over Stanhope last Sunday and hopefully it's the beginning of a whole new pattern.

Airport manager Mike Carey and the airport committee held a fly-in brunch that fed about 175 people and showed off the new airport facilities to over 75 pilots. "There were 75 pilots in who signed the book but I know not all of them signed it," said Carey.

The day began at 10 a.m. with Stanhope Reeve Harry Davis frying up bacon, eggs and pancakes to eager flyers and families. The line was long, the chatter was loud and the sun shone through it all. By noon barbecues full of hamburgers and hot dogs sizzled away as well.

Derek Rolfe manned the radio and easily guided the incoming planes onto the new runway. At one point three planes were lined up for landing and three more circled while they waited for clearance—almost like Pearson International.

"People on the radio were congratulating Derek on a good performance," said Carey. Float planes were directed to Maple Lake to land and a few were seen cruising up the Gull River to dock.

Carey said he had quite a few calls the next day from people who congratulated him on the new airport and the success of the fly-in. He had sent out notices of the event to dozens of airports in order to attract attention.

"I'm really pleased with how it all went," he said. "A lot of people now know where we are and they promised to come back," he added.

Snowdon votes to close South Lake compound

With negotiations at an obvious impasse, Snowdon Township Council has decided to take legal steps close down the automobile holding yard on South Lake.

As long as there was some movement in the talks between South Lake residents and the owner of the holding yard, council was willing to grant extensions to the cease and desist order, Reeve George Simmons said at last Monday's council meeting.

"Council thought an agreement could be reached," said Simmons, "but it's at an impasse now."

The impasse was evident at the annual meeting of the South Lake Association of Cottagers and Residents on June 20. Association members gave strong support to a resolution demanding that council take immediate action to enforce the cease and desist order issued to Lyddiatt.

The order was filed a year earlier, but council had granted several extensions to allow Lyddiatt time to clean up his property and to encourage negotiations between Lyddiatt and his neighbours.

About 20 South Lake residents were on hand at Monday's meeting prepared to protest any further extensions. However, there was no need for protest, since council was prepared to take action.

Reeve Simmons said there are two ways of dealing with the holding yard: enforce the cease and desist order or ask for a court order on the closure of the yard. Council chose the second option.

"I hate to see (Lyddiatt) put out of work, but I think we have to go with the cease and desist order," said councillor

Ron Burk.

Simmons agreed. He said Lyddiatt had a year to prepare for this Council unanimously passed a resolution to call for a court injunction. Snowdon Clerk Ernie Hills said it will be six to eight weeks before an injunction can be granted.

The benefit of dealing with the situation through the court is that any violations will generate more serious consequences. If the court orders Lyddiatt to suspend activity at his compound, Hills said any violations could be considered to be in contempt of court.

If, instead, council had decided to enforce its cease and desist order, violations would be dealt with as by-law infractions, said Hills.

Hills said council's decision places the matter into a higher court. However, while it suspends Lyddiatt's operations, it does not force him to do any clean up on the property, said Hills.

Lyddiatt has made attempts to resolve the situation by looking for an alternate site for the holding yard. He hired Brad Bradamore as a consultant, who came up with a proposal for a new location on the same road. The proposal would place the holding yard at the corner of Hamilton Road and South Lake Road.

SLACAR members have vowed to fight a rezoning of this property, saying it, too, is poorly suited to be used as a holding yard for wrecked vehicles.

Bradamore was in attendance at Monday's meeting to ask for another extension on the cease and desist order.

"My client is asking for enough grace until a decision is made on (the alternate site)."

Simmons, however, said it could take two or three years before approval for a rezoning of the new site is granted. He said council is not willing to allow operations to continue at the present site for that long.

Regarding the bid for the alternate site, Bradamore complained that cottagers would object to it regardless of the location. He made a presentation at SLACAR's annual meeting and said he got the impression "everyone had their minds made up before I got there." He said SLACAR members do not want a holding yard anywhere in the county.

Bradamore also accused the association of slandering Lyddiatt and himself through their letters in the local papers. "If it was up to me, I'd be seeking litigation," he said.

Bradamore said the matter has been blown out of proportion. "It's just a simple little holding yard . . . site specific zoning . . . I don't think you can be any fairer than that."

Reeve Simmons reminded Bradamore that council was not dealing with the proposal for the new site. He said the concern is with the present site and asked Lyddiatt what his intentions are.

"You were well aware a year ago of the township's intentions," Simmons said, referring to the cease and desist order. He asked Lyddiatt to tell council what his plans are for the site.

"What can I do?" Lyddiatt responded.

"I don't know. What other options do I have? Are there any other places in the township I can park vehicles?"

Lyddiatt then asked "would there be any compensation or is it a lawyers' matter?"

Bradamore has previously warned that Lyddiatt is prepared to fight this matter in court. Although the operation of a holding yard is in contravention of the zoning by-law for Lyddiatt's property, his operation had been given the green light by council.

At a council meeting in April of 1987, Lyddiatt was given permission to operate a holding yard on his property on South Lake. According to the minutes of that meeting, council had no objections to a request from Lyddiatt to store impounded vehicles for a few days at a time.

At the June 30 SLACAR meeting, Bradamore warned that this is not a clear-cut matter. "... it is not as simple as it may seem because previous councils allowed the use to continue," he told the members. "Therefore it is hard to say if it is contested, what the outcome may be and who has to pay." He said he has 15 years of experience as a by-law enforcement officer, "and I can tell you from the bottom of my heart that there are a lot of grey areas on both sides."

"If Mr. Lyddiatt decides to stay and fight where he is and Snowdon Township decides to take him to court, I can assure you it will probably cost in excess of $20,000 apiece and who knows who will win," asked Bradamore.

Minden BIA must improve its organization

It is discouraging to witness the behaviour and lack of participation at the monthly BIA meetings in Minden. Where there should be an organized, constructive and cohesive unit of merchants working to improve their setting, their atmosphere and their sales, there appears to be a collection of single-minded, unwilling and uninitiated individuals.

The BIA is an important organization in a small town such as Minden. Through it merchants become familiar with each other and their products. They can ally to create a better shopping environment and make more money. The bickering that mars the Minden meetings can only serve to bring the BIA to a bitter end.

Although there are more than 40 members in the BIA, there are fewer than 20 at any meeting. Last week there were seven members in attendance with four people there to present material to the group for comment. While many members have opinions they are more than willing to share, few attend the meetings to express themselves in an organized atmosphere.

As a result, the same small group ends up making most of the decisions about the lifeline of the town's commercial section.

The group is supposed to meet to discuss and debate issues, and attempt to resolve them for the betterment of the merchants, and for the town as a whole. What occurred last week was a charade of name-calling and character assault that had to be called off by the Chairman.

Personal and business gripes should be properly addressed in an adult, business-like manner. While members must realize criticism is important to build and better any environment, they must also understand the difference between constructive criticism and petty bickering.

A BIA brings with it the potential to improve the profitability of the businesses within its jurisdiction. Ironically, the Minden BIA is less organized than any volunteer organization in the area.

Except for Chairman Lewis Stevens, there is no executive for the BIA. There is no specific person to take notes, write up the minutes and to ensure all members are notified of the meetings. Members seem to expect a lot but give very little.

If this important organization is to survive, members must make a sincere effort to become better organized.

With the current attitude and participation, events such as the upcoming Sidewalk Sale will be meagre productions that provide an impression of nonchalance of the town's businesspeople. After all, a town is reflected in its Main St. shops and attitudes.

Jalopy not worth stealing

Black 'n White

by Arthur Black

Best car I ever had in my life was an ancient, footlocker-green, two-door, stickshift Volvo with a wonky windshield wiper and a front bumper held on with a twist of barbed wire.

Fast? That jalopy couldn't catch a wheelchair in a quarter-mile.

Stylish? I've seen sexier manure spreaders.

Mint condition? My Volvo had more dings and dents than a Boston Bruin defenceman.

That crate was clunky, arthritic, homely and slow as a sea slug in peanut butter — and I loved it like family. Why?

Because that was the whole point! My car was so utterly and demonstrably worthless that I never had to worry about it being swiped! Every year I bought the least amount of insurance I could get away with, and every time I climbed out of that car I left her doors unlocked, windows down — keys in the ignition, even.

When I came back, she'd always be where I left her, and I knew it.

Even car thieves have certain standards, you

Sign by-law hampers farmers' market

Editor:

In many communities farmers have the support of local government. Farmers' Markets have been supported and road workers have turned a blind eye to signs advertising the sale of farm produce. This has not happened in Hali-burton. Not only has council denied a request for a Farmers' Market but more recently workers have knocked down my signs indicating where maple syrup and strawberries can be purchased. Of course, real estate signs have been allowed to remain.

Any tourist who has managed to find my place is delighted that a farm can exist in cottage country. Many wonder why I haven't signs and assure me I'm losing business.

Public service workers are always guaranteed a decent standard of living but things are different in the private sector, the real world. In order for businesses to survive in this county, people need to be supportive of each other. Destroying signs is counter-productive. Our county officials should be ashamed of themselves.

Guilford Township.

Senior Games a big hit

Editor:

Again, our sincere thanks.

We wish to extend our sincere thanks for your support for the Seventh Annual Haliburton Senior Games. This year Muskoka also competed in the Haliburton Muskoka District 11 Senior Games held from June 18 to June 26. The gold medal winners in these events will go on to compete at Actifest 90, the Ontario Senior Games to be held in London in August. We are proud to have 20 gold medal competitors from Haliburton at this event.

Over 30 volunteers have spent many hours organizing and convening the Senior Games. The support of clubs, municipalities and businesses enable us to continue this worthwhile cause.

For Pete's sake

Editor:

I think as a town we should be expressing our gratitude to Pete and Marg of Pete's Place. As a teacher here for many years I have come to believe that Minden kids are a fine group of young people.

As parents Merle and I love our sons. It is comforting to know that there are people out there in the community like Pete and Marg who care about our children.

Thank you Pete and Marg.

know.

Nowadays I drive an almost new car, and like all the good car-owning burghers around me, I'm neurotic about scratches and dents and whether or not I locked both back doors.

It's stupid, fretting over an overpriced agglomeration of chrome and plastic on wheels. I'd like to be more Zen-like, less materialistic, but there it is. If God has a sense of humour, he'll have me snuffed in a head-on collision on my way home from having my car turtle-waxed.

Well, if I am an auto-neurotic, at least I'm part of a trend. There's a whole new industry out there, dedicated to people just like me.

Consider Gregory. He comes from a firm called Sharper Image. Gregory is tall, well-built and handsome in a rugged, don't-mess-with-me kind of way. You want to do some shopping but you're afraid to leave your car in a high-crime area? Take Gregory along. He'd be glad to sit in your car all day — and all night too, if you want.

Well, he won't actually be "glad" to do it. Truth to tell, Gregory doesn't give much of a damn one way or the other. That's because Gregory is a mannequin. A dummy. But an extremely realistic one. "His strong masculine image" says a Sharper Image spokesman, "makes Gregory the ideal companion for single women, night nurses, the elderly or the handicapped."

Sure — but can he fix flats and will he spring for half the gas?

Over in England, authorities are turning downright devious in their war against car thieves. In cities such as Liverpool, Manchester, Birmingham and Leeds, lightfingered Louies on the lookout for some free transportation are frequently coming across some very sporty autos, completely unlocked, with the keys in the ignition.

Scarcely believing their luck, they jump into the car, turn the key and — BWEPP BWEPP BWEPP!

Suddenly all Hades breaks loose. The engine cuts off, the windows whoosh up and the door locks snap shut. And all the while a 120-decibel alarm klaxon is ringing the thief's head senseless. Meanwhile, the local constabulary has been electronically alerted and cops are on their way to arrest the carnapper and escort him to an institution where he will have no need of anybody's car keys for some time.

The U.S.-Russian Cold War may be over, but the Cops 'n Robbers Crusade wages on un-dimmed. When the good guys come up with something new it only works as long as it takes the crooks to figure out how to short-circuit it.

I can see it all now. Some night soon an alarm bell will flash CAR THEFT IN PROGRESS on a British police switchboard. The Bobbys fly out of the station, surround the car, yank open the driver's door, grab the thief and sling him to the sidewalk and find themselves staring down at the strong, masculine, don't-mess-with-me smirk of ...

Gregory, British version, patent pending.

1990 MS campaign raises $1 million

Editor:

I would like to take this opportunity on behalf of the estimated 50,000 Canadians who have Multiple Sclerosis to thank you for placing our Carnation Campaign ad slick in The Times. Without your assistance in promoting our Campaign we would not have been able to raise the much needed funds dedicated to servicing those with MS and their families and to conduct new and ongoing

Reservations pulled at lodge

Editor:

In this area we often hear our civic and business leaders speak of the importance of tourism, and urging us to make visitors welcome. We also frequently hear pleas to support our local businesses.

In light of this, we thought it might be interesting to show how one local business puts these principles into practice.

On July 7 our whole family came to visit to celebrate a couple of birthdays. We had made a reservation for dinner a month previously at Hart Lodge and that reservation was confirmed on the morning of the 7th for the 6 p.m. sitting.

As we were preparing to leave, an employee of Hart Lodge telephoned at 5:20 p.m. and said they couldn't fulfill their end of the bargain as they were "too busy". She offered to change our reservation to 8 p.m. but we said this wasn't acceptable. With three young children in the group we wanted the earlier time as arranged.

The Hart Lodge employee refused to make any arrangements to accommodate us at 6 p.m. but adopted a "take-it-or-leave-it" attitude. The reservation had been made and confirmed in error, she claimed. As a result we were forced to make alternate arrangements at the last minute, which didn't sit well with anyone.

The upshot is that Hart Lodge not only lost our business on that occasion, but will certainly forego it in future. Our out-of-town guests were left with the impression of a business that was, at best, disorganized; at worst incompetent.

We will be thinking of this incident when we hear future pronouncements about supporting tourism and patronizing local business.

There's new hope for the survival of the Harcourt mill Natural Resources Minister was fed faulty information

by Jay Kerr-Wilson

There is new hope the Harcourt sawmill may yet be saved, but the hope is faint and fading.

On July 6 a meeting was held in Wilberforce involving Victoria-Haliburton MPP John Eakins, Haliburton County Warden Don Shortreed, Dysart Reeve Bill Davis, Monmouth Reeve Keith Tallman and two former employees of the G.W. Martin sawmill.

At that meeting, new information was presented which may help convince Lyn McLeod, the Minister of Natural Resources, to reverse her earlier decision not to transfer Crown timber rights to a potential buyer of the operation.

"It opened my eyes," said Eakins. He's trying to arrange a meeting with McLeod to bring her up to date on the new information.

Eakins said he couldn't discuss the specific nature of the new information but said it involves the percentage of Crown timber the Martin mill used while it was operating.

When McLeod made her decision not to transfer the timber rights, she said the Martin mill was only using 30 per cent Crown timber and should be able to operate at least one shift using just private wood.

However Martin officials disputed McLeod's figures and said the percentage of Crown timber used by the mill was closer to 50 per cent.

The evidence might be enough to save the Harcourt mill, said Eakins. "Some might take it as dead," said Eakins. "But with the new evidence, there's the possibility of the decision being reviewed. I haven't rolled over yet."

Eakins says he is concerned about the future of the 125 laid-off Martin employees and is investigating what can be done to help their situation.

Shortreed says he met with Eakins again last Thursday and is satisfied the issue will be pursued. "I'd hate to see the issue die," said Shortreed. "I'm quite happy John is going to pursue it and we'll co-operate with any help the county can give."

Martin officials are in the process of negotiating with companies interested in buying parts of the mill after it is dismantled. Shortreed says there is still hope someone can be found to operate the mill as a whole.

"If it's dismantled, it will be a blow to the employees and to the county," said Shortreed. "You'll never see another mill there again."

Davis says the new information should be enough to convince McLeod to rethink her original decision. "When a decision is based on information that is not exactly correct, I believe the minister should have the good faith to relook at the issue. I think she should have that much responsibility," he said.

McLeod is not to blame for her decision if it was based on incorrect information, said Davis, although he could not explain why the minister was given the wrong information in the first place.

But in order for any hope to remain, Davis says the mill has to left in one piece long enough for a new decision to be reached. "It's important to protect the employees," he said. Dismantling the mill would be like "closing the light off at the end of the tunnel."

Amid all this optimism, the President of G.W. Martin says he doubts anything will come of the latest developments and there is little hope the mill can be sold in one piece.

Norman Laine said the company did all it could to convince the ministry to transfer the rights but "they wouldn't listen." He said the ministry has already been told the information they had was incorrect, "but it didn't seem to bother them."

He says he's skeptical anything can be done to save the mill now.

There have been rumours a new buyer was interested in the mill, but without the Crown timber rights Laine says he can't sell the mill as an operating concern.

General Manager Peter Hattin is negotiating with three companies interested in buying the mill for parts and Laine says as soon as a deal can be signed the mill will be closed.

"We held back for nine months," said Laine. "If we had known what the minister's decision was going to be, we would have salvaged the mill right then."

Meanwhile the former employees of the mill are trying to see if there is any way they prevent the mill from being salvaged before Eakins has a chance to meet with McLeod.

Bob Rae says political interference may have played part in decision

The leader of Ontario's New Democratic Party says he's not convinced that political interference didn't play a part in the decision not to transfer Crown timber rights for the Harcourt sawmill.

"It's a real problem," Bob Rae told reporters at the NDP nomination meeting last Tuesday. "Old style politics still plays a part in how licenses are allotted."

Earlier this year Lyn

McLeod decided not to transfer Crown timber rights to a prospective buyer of the G.W. Martin sawmill in Harcourt.

The decision killed the purchase agreement Martin had with Robert Bury and Company and the mill is now in the process of being sold for salvage.

Rae said he's concerned with the future of the 125 laid-off employees of the Martin mill. A strategy for the local economy should be in place because of the impact the mill's closure will have, he said.

Although he concedes there's a great deal of pressure on the province's timber supply, Rae said the government has to "ensure the decision is free of political influence."

"I'm not satisfied that's the case," said Rae.

Dinner theatre returns to Highlands with two catchy one-act plays

by Carol Moffatt

Dinner theatre has returned to entertain summer audiences in Haliburton.

Hart Lodge opened its summer theatre season last week with two one-act plays entitled Mother gets her Wings and R.I.P. Mr. G.I.C.

Mother gets her Wings is a light comedy about a woman who finds herself at Heaven's door, faced with a bureaucratic 'expeditor' who makes her re-trace her life's mistakes before she can get her angel's wings.

The play deals with social subjects like death, religion, God, bigotry and politics. It mixes them up with big business, paperwork and red tape to bring the topics to a more human, less scary level. It makes a strong point of de-sensitizing death and the afterlife by making light of them.

James Niblett (Glen Carter) the expeditor forces Mother (Debra Dart) to face her own past and her own realities. He coaxes her into telling him what he already knows about her life by presenting her with moral dilemmas and personal conflicts from her own life.

Niblett dredges up Mother's entire moral history including pre-marital sex, adultery and the raising of her children. Once she can verbalize what she knows in her heart (what Niblett knows from his computer terminal) she will be free to enter Heaven.

Writer David Carley has done a fine job of weaving humour into serious and sometimes taboo topics. Many times throughout the play he pushes into a topic which is controversial in today's society then quickly deflates tension with snappy remarks or innuendo.

In true Canadian style, Carley makes several references to the Leafs and snowmobiling, and gets in a few digs about the west coast. Such quips and jokes make the play seem rather patriotic, even if the references are mocking other Canadians.

Glen Carter as the expeditor is both whimsical and wonderfully bureaucratic. Debra Dart brings her role of Mother to life with tears on demand and the typical fidgeting of someone caught out in a series of lies.

R.I.P. Mr. G.I.C. is a mystery comedy involving a frisky ghost, a completely unctious executive, a somewhat dopey company president and a liberated female manager.

The play mixes new and old attitudes

(more on page 14)

Doug Brohm, Debra Dart, Glen Carter and Doug Gifford ham it up after last week's performances of the two one-act plays they are putting on at Hart Lodge. Both plays are light comedies written by Canadians and both provide plenty of laughs.

In response to the cases outlined by Elliott in his opening remarks, Jordan said no one asked the police to accost and frisk kids in Main Street. Jordan said he only wants more police visibility in the area. There was some discussion with regard to a foot patrolman and Jordan

Bradamore told those in attendance that although he was not at the last meeting to participate in any discussions, he approved of his children going to Pete's Place, which has been the target of criticism over the past few weeks. Jordan replied that Pete's Place was not discussed

When Elliott left, Bradamore took the floor to attempt to explain to the BIA why his development is taking so long to complete. While he tried to provide his explanation, with plans and maps, Bradamore was badgered by Jordan. Chairman Lewis Stevens had to call an end to the argument, at which point Jordan walked out of the meeting.

At the start of the meeting the Main St. sidewalk sale was discussed at length. The sale, planned for August 9, is being organized by the BIA and Autumn Davis of The Times who was also in attendance to get feedback from the merchants. The discussion emphasized encouraging all retailers to get involved in order to make the sale a success.

Tentative plans for a petting zoo on the Village Green were discussed, but getting local people to provide animals for children to pet proved to be an issue that needed more research. The Lions Club is interested in providing clowns

"The whole thing hinges on participation," said Jordan. "We should free up our sidewalks for this kind of thing," he added, noting that sidewalk sales in recent years have been poorly attended, partially due to a lack of participation by Main St. merchants.

The members agreed the sidewalk sale day should be a 'carnival atmosphere', a fun day as well as a business day. It was agreed that the Village Green would be rented by the BIA for the sidewalk sale. The area will be divided up depending on requests for space and the confirmation of a petting zoo.

Brian Sisson submitted the parking plan for Peck St. which was brought forward for consideration again after it was so agreed last meeting.

Sisson also submitted a list of repairs that are needed to Main Street and area. These repairs include rebuilding the walkway beside Highland Jewellery, lighting

Committee crumbles

Six more members resign airport committee

by Carol Moffatt

The Stanhope Airport Committee has crumbled following the joint resignation of six of the remaining nine members.

In a surprise letter to Stanhope Council Wednesday, the five stated "it has become apparent that the services of the Airport Committee are no longer required by the present council."

The five are Gunter Wolm (who resigned as Committee Chairman a few weeks ago), Ron Bacon, Paul and Pam Rolfe and Louise Watson. The remaining members are Robert Lam, airport manager Mike Carey, who holds no voting privileges and council representative Murray Daniels.

Lorne Heise resigned on his own, stating that he was too busy to be involved in the committee. His resignation was tendered prior to the start of the meeting and was on the agenda.

The letter went on to state that the members feel after 20 years of voluntary labour, dedication and improvement they have been shut out of any decision-making process about airport business.

"Council has shown no interest whatsoever in giving the Airport Committee a more meaningful purpose, other than the planning of social functions, such as 'Pilots Breakfasts' or 'Fly-Ins' and the serving of hamburgers and hotdogs at such events," the letter stated.

The loss of Derek Rolfe, called the "most dedicated and knowledgeable member and the driving force behind the committee" is cited as the final reason for the resignations. The letter states the five have become "completely discouraged" and resign effective July 11, 1990.

Stanhope Clerk-Administrator Gerald Bain said the resignations were accepted by council. He said nothing will be done right now but council will meet and review the alternatives to the three-member committee, one of whom can't even vote on airport affairs.

Meeting set a week early to prepare for sidewalk sale walkways and painting the railings beside the Something Shop and the bridge railings.

Stevens asked for comments on the new location of the gazebo. Corinne Howell said it was "a nice place for someone to hang around". Other members agreed to wait and see if the new location works out over the summer before deciding on what to do with the gazebo. "I live next door so you'll know soon enough," said Pete Worrell, owner of Pete's Place.

Bradamore reported that the street numbering project that was developed previously is 90 per cent finished and it will be worked on in his spare time.

Stevens asked for a report on events that will be considered for advertising sponsorship by the BIA but neither Danny Tate nor Harry Pye, who are in charge of the report, were at the meeting.

Due to the hour and the few remaining attendants, the meeting was adjourned. It was decided that the next meeting will take place on July 30, a week before the sidewalk sale, in order for merchants to get themselves organized and to find out how things will be set up for the sale.

By-laws drown Beech Lake ski school

by Carol Moffatt

A waterskiing school on Carnarvon's Beech Lake is being forced to move because of complaints from property owners.

The location of the school is not zoned for commercial use and the operation of a business on the property is a contravention of the zoning by-law, said Stanhope Administrator Gerald Bain told The Times last week.

Ski Barefoot, owned and operated by four-time Canadian champion water skier Karyn Cromwell and her father Brock, has been operated from the Cromwells' cottage for several years without any apparent problems.

This year the Cromwells placed ads in local newspapers, outlining the clinics and lessons they offer throughout the summer. Bain said the ads clearly indicate a business is being operated in an SR2 zone (Seasonal Residential). After several calls were received complaining or inquiring about the school, the township had to address the problem. A registered letter was sent to the Cromwells asking them to cease and desist their operation.

"This comes at the eleventh hour," said Brock. "We've got people booked in from all over North America over the next few weeks."

Arrangements have been made with John Smith, owner of Beech View Cottages to run the school from the resort's shores in the south bay of the lake. The Cromwell's currently offer lessons and clinics to Beech View guests.

Bain said there was never any need to address the school's contravention of the by-law in the past because no one had complained or said they had seen money changing hands. That meant technically there was no indication of a business in operation.

Simply having a group of people at one's home to waterski doesn't contravene the by-law. Having those skiers pay money does. However, the township only has interest in and control over what happens on land. Technically, the Cromwell's could accept money from clients while on the water and nothing could be done.

Brock is upset about the cease and desist order. He said he has always made sure his neighbours have known how things worked, how early the skiing would begin, and has made an effort to keep the communication lines open with neighbours. "It's hard when you're trying to get along with neighbours to satisfy everyone's agenda," he said.

Brock feels the increased complaints have been a result of two new additions this year. A ski jump has been placed in the lake in front of the Cromwell's cottage

World Champion waterskiier Ron Scarpa toes the line at Ski Barefoot on Beech Lake. Complaints from residents and cottagers have forced the school, run by four time Canadian Champion waterskiier Karyn Cromwell, to move to Beech View Cottages resort because the school's location at Cromwell's cottage isn't zoned for commercial use.

and the Canadian National Waterski Team is arriving in a few weeks to train and to get rated for jumping.

The Cromwells are the only people in the province with a regulation jump and the authorization to certify the jumpers. Rating was supposed to take place recently at the Eastern Canadian Championships in the Olympic Basin in Montreal, but poor wind conditions interfered.

A new garage on the Cromwell's second lot behind the cottage may be the other source of complaints. Brock said he needed a new garage to house the boats and equipment he and Karyn own but building a garage wasn't possible.

Because he wanted to put the building on a second lot, he had to meet the township's building requirements of a minimum of 600 square feet. "I had to put entire living quarters on top of the garage," said Brock, who wonders if others think he has built a motel for guests.

Brock said accommodation arrangements are made for guests in local motels and cottages and the only skiing guests he's ever had staying at his cottage are a couple of children he's agreed to look after for a few days.

"We've given the area a lot of publicity which means a lot of tourist dollars," said Brock. "This is chaos," he added.

Brock said he doesn't run the school to make a big pile of money. In fact, he said, he runs the place virtually at a loss. The main reason the school exists is to provide his daughter, Karyn, with the opportunity to train with world-class athletes.

Waterskiing is not a highly funded sport; Brock said some Canadian team members "have to practically beg and steal" to ski competitively. The World Championships take place this October.

Brock said he will have to wait to see how things work out of Beech View. He has the option of applying for commercial zoning but hasn't yet decided what to do.

Rockcliffe Hustlers fall into a slump

The Minden Rockcliffe Hustlers, who started the season on a roll, have hit a mid-season slump.

After dropping two more games last week, the Hustlers have sunk to a record of five wins, eight losses.

On Tuesday the Hustlers travelled to Bobcaygeon and lost a 4-1 decision, with Brian Shaw scoring Minden's only run.

On Thursday, the Hustlers hosted the first-place team from Fenelon Falls and were beaten 7-1.

The Fenelon team came out swinging and had secured a 5-1 lead after only three innings.

Jack Schell scored Minden's only run of the game.

Hustler Coach Dave Dollo says the team's lack of offensive production is one of the main reasons for the recent slump.

The team has several younger, inexperienced players on the roster this year, and Dollo says the veteran team members aren't swinging the bat like they should be.

This Wednesday the Hustlers travel to Fenelon Falls and on Thursday they're back home against Bobcaygeon. Games are played at the new diamond at 8:30 p.m.

FORE! Hustler second baseman Doug Shaw tees up on a Fenelon pitch. The Hustlers lost the game 7-1.

Snowmobile association welcomes new executive

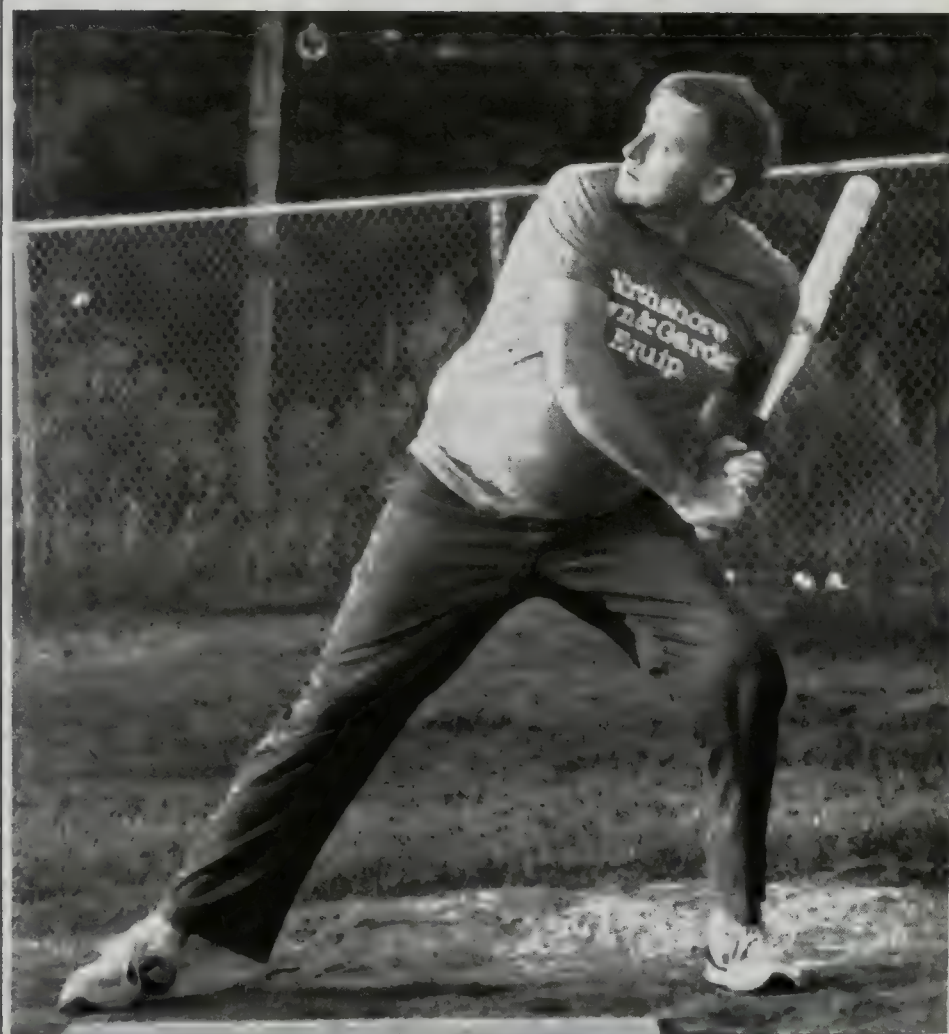

Haliburton County Snowmobile Association held its annual General Meeting June 9 in Minden. We would like to thank everyone who attended the evening to make it the success it was. A special thanks to outgoing president Peter Overington for his past three years of dedicated support and exhausting work. We would like to welcome back the existing directors as well as the new directors and the following is a list of the new executive:

Brian Watts - President;

Larry Tupling - 1st Vice President; Mark Lester - 2nd Vice President; Peter Overington - Past President; Steve Berry - Grant Chairman; Steve Brand - Map Chairman; Bob Bryant - Clothing Sales Chairman; Mike Burke - Driver Training Chairman; Judy Carpenter - Secretary-Treasurer, Social Committee Chairperson; Norm Gemmell - Membership Chairman; Gord Hamilton - Bridge Chairman; Wes Lytle - Fundraising Chairman; John Stethem - Business Advisory Committee Chairman; Bill Wilson - Equipment Inventory Chairman.

When mighty Arnie comes to bat...

Arnold Cowen, coach of Team Twelve in the Wednesday night slo-pitch league, readies himself for a thunderous pitch in last week's game. Cowen's trademark stances make him famous throughout the county. The league, halfway through the season, is a great success.

Donations rising at local blood donor clinic

It wasn't quite a record, but organizers of last week's Red Cross Blood Donor Clinic were still pleased with the turn-out.

Some 237 residents and visitors attended the annual clinic held all day at the Legion Hall in Haliburton. From that number, 212 pints of blood were collected. Donations from 25 were declined for a variety of medical reasons.

Last year, 196 pints of blood were donated while in 1988 the total was 180. The best year in the clinic's history was 1986 when 242 pints were provided by the local donors.

Organizers, noting this year's clinic drew the second highest number of donations, were happy with the attendance. They pointed out that while the clinic could handle many more donors, this year's total continued an upward trend.

The next local clinic will be held next July, although donors are encouraged to give blood at clinic's in larger centres during the year.

Annual tourney handed over to Minden Fire Dept.

by Carol Moffatt

The tenth annual M.R. Airlines International Open Golf Tournament wound up Thursday afternoon. After two days of chasing little white spheres around Blairhampton's nine holes, about 60 of the 74 registered golfers crammed into the nineteenth hole for the awards presentation.

M.R. 'Joe' Enfield and son-in-law E.A. 'Al' Day host the event which solicits donations from area merchants. All money raised goes to the Minden Fire Department's fund for new equipment. Over the past 10 years the tournament has raised more than $8,300 for the fire department.

Enfield is from Grand Island, New York. Thirty years ago a group of Americans came up to the area on holidays and liked it so much they kept coming back. Ten years ago Enfield started the tournament as a way of putting a little back into the area they have come to love.

The tournament's overall Low Gross winners were Joyce Bradbury with a 94 and Phil (the Fox) Dixon who won a tie breaker with a 70.

The Honest Golfer awards went to Gwen Paterson with a 139 and Ron Vandenbroek with a 119. The Fewest Putts awards were handed out to Marjorie Windover for 35 and Doug Prozak with 29.

John Chapman took the laurels for the men's longest drive with a 285-yard stroke. Barb Bunker clubbed the ladies' longest drive but her distance was unavailable at awards time.

Jerry Palmer and Roly Scott won for the closest drive to the pin. Their exact distances weren't available.

Third place winners in caloway—both of whom won in multiple tie breakers—were Helen Rice with 73 and Jim Vann with 71.5. Second place trophies went to Diane Tressoff and Dave Wilson, both with 71.0. First place awards went to Jean Barker with 67.5 and Jack Miller with a 64.

A cheque for $1,900 was presented to Minden Fire Chief Don Booth. Booth then presented Enfield and Day with plaques of appreciation for their 10 years of service to the fire department. Enfield and Day also received Minden Fire Department badges as honorary members. The tournament is now in the organizational hands of the Minden Fire Department.

E.A. 'Al' Day (left) and M.R. 'Joe' Enfield flank Minden Fire Chief Don Booth who presented the pair with plaques of appreciation for putting on the annual M.R. Airlines Annual golf tournament for ten years. The tournament raised $1,900 this year which Booth says will go toward updating the department's radio equipment, hopefully with cellular phones for the firemen. The running of the tournament was officially handed over to the Minden Fire Department this year.

Swimming accidents

Recreation aquatic accidents account for over 1,200 fatalities annually in Canada. This is more than the number of fatalities associated with air disasters, commercial shipping tragedies and rail disasters combined.

Highest at risk are male—accounting for 85 per cent of the total. In fact, in the 15-49 year old age group, nine out of ten drowning victims are male.

One-third of drownings involve power boats, usually small craft under 18 feet in length

Local maple syrup producers to host 1990 summer tour

The Haliburton Maple Syrup producers are hosting the 1990 Annual Summer Tour of the Ontario Maple Syrup Producers Association. The Haliburton Maple Syrup Producers Association includes the counties of Victoria and Peterborough in addition to the County of Haliburton. This year's summer tour will take place July 19th to the 21st. Registration will take place on Thursday evening the 19th and continue on the morning of Friday the 20th at the Minden Community Centre.

The tour will include visits to the following farms: Iron Kettle (Louise Berry and family); Waverlybrook (Tyler family); Wintergreen (Tom and Diane Dawson); Dwayne Wruth's maple bush; Wake Robin Farm (George and Linda Burley) as well as a visit to the Haliburton Forest and Wildlife Reserve.

The farm tours will begin on Friday morning and conclude Saturday at noon. The highlight of this tour will be the banquet to be held at the Minden arena on Friday evening at 7:00 p.m. This tour is a very worthwhile event for those interested in Maple Syrup production and it is an honour for this area to host this provincial event.

Correction

It was incorrectly reported in last week's paper that Val Loughheed met with the International Olympic Committee during her recent visit to Vienna.

Loughheed, Race Governor for the Minden Sled Dog Derby and president of the Canadian Federation of Sleddog Sports, met with the International Federation of Sleddog Sports. That federation reports to the General Association of International Sports Federations, which, in turn, reports to the IOC.

We apologize for any inconvenience caused by this error.

about work ethics, women in business and chauvinism into a fast-paced whodunnit. While waiting for her first-day-on-the-job interview with the company president, a female trust company manager is accosted by the ghost of the company's founder. The two then set about to catch the slimey executive in the act of stealing from the company which he has been doing behind the president's back for years.

Carter plays the ghost wonderfully; he is convincingly old in appearance and attitude. Dart plays a strong role as the liberated executive involved in hijinks while fending off the advances of three men. The bumbling company president is perfectly recreated by Doug Brohm, and Doug Gifford couldn't have done a better job of making his character so unappealing.

R.I.P. Mr. G.I.C. is a fun and lively play. It is intricate enough to be interesting but not confusing. The three-way conversations occurring between the ghost, the manager and the president are fast and furious. Only the manager can see and hear the ghost and she traps herself several times when the others think she is talking to them.

A couple of vaudevillian stunts prove effective in providing the mystery atmosphere and an unseen secretary called Irene gives the play another dimension beyond the simple set.

One-act plays always seem a little short but in this case both are served well by their participants. Brian Tremblay, the writer of R.I.P. Mr. G.I.C., has also done a fine job of creating comedy. Although the storyline has been used before, he has managed to bring this one to life with subtleties, innuendo and outright funny lines.

Both plays can be seen every Tuesday night through July and August. Dinner is set at 7:30 p.m. with the plays beginning around 9:00 p.m. Reservations can be made by contacting Hart Lodge.

Snowdon aims to establish its own fire department

Continued problems related to rented fire protection have Snowdon Township Council looking for ways to set up its own fire departments.

Escalating costs for the rental of fire protection services from neighbouring municipalities has plagued the township in recent years. Compounding the problems was the announcement in June that Glamorgan Township could no longer provide protection in Snowdon after the end of that month.

At last Monday's meeting, councillors heard the pros and cons of establishing their own fire protection services from Jim Coulson, who works for the Fire Advisory Services of the Fire Marshal's Office.

Snowdon has traditionally received its fire protection on a contract basis from its four neighbouring municipalities: Minden, Dysart, Somerville and Glamorgan. Since Glamorgan withdrew its services at the start of July, Somerville has extended its coverage to fill the gap.

Coulson told council he did a quick 'drive-through' of the township before Monday's meeting. Because the population is thinly spread throughout the township, it would be impossible to cover the entire area from one base, he said.

Snowdon would need four fire vehicles to cover the whole township, said Coulson. "That's the long and the short of it."

However, he said it might be possible to work out agreements with some of the neighbouring municipalities that could prove mutually beneficial. He noted that Lutterworth Township is in the same position as Snowdon regarding fire protection. There is a possibility that a joint agreement might be possible with Lutterworth that could benefit both.

Reeve George Simmons told Coulson that he envisions two fire stations for the township: one at Lochlin and one in Irondale. He said he has already contacted several people from those areas who have expressed an interest in serving as volunteer firefighters.

Although Coulson said a thorough study would be in order before anything is decided, his initial reaction to Simmons' suggested locations was cool.

Insurance benefits derived from a fire hall are limited to a radius of eight to 10 miles. Since Irondale and Lochlin are close to the township boundaries, residents might not get the optimum benefits in these locations.

Coulson also provided council with some estimated costs involved in setting up a fire department. He said a new truck, fully equipped, will cost about $135,000. He strongly advised against buying used equipment, saying it is difficult to find good used equipment. "If you're in it for the long term, it's better to buy new, then it will last you for 25 years."

The cost of a fire hall would depend

Politicians offer plenty of green rhetoric

In spite of the "green" rhetoric, no government has seriously attempted to slow the continued growth of energy and resource over-consumption, population, pollution and destruction of wilderness that are making the planet uninhabitable.

Ironically, the vision and leadership are coming from people who have traditionally been powerless and disenfranchised.

1) The Third World. 4.2 billion people in poor countries have had to eke out a survival on 25 per cent of the planet's resources. The misery of their exploding numbers has been created by the crumbs they have to live on and exacerbated by their use as dumping grounds for outmoded or banned technologies like pesticides and toxic wastes of the rich nations.

But today the fate of all people in the world hinges on the future of the Third World. If, for example, they decide to copy our lifestyle of high consumption and waste, we will all be left with crumbs to fight over.

If India and China go ahead with plans to industrialize using their extensive reserves of coal, the level of warming gases in the atmosphere will increase dramatically. China's plan to put a refrigerator in every home by the end of the century has huge

by David Suzuki

implications if they use ozone depleting CFCs as refrigerant instead of the more expensive alternatives. Yet U.S. President Bush recently rejected India's suggestion that the rich countries contribute to a superfund for the Third World to finance such projects.

In the same way, the future of tropical rainforests depends on our willingness to relieve countries of their debt.

Brazil's environment minister Jose Lutzenberger recently made a precedent setting announcement that the country would consider preserving forest if foreign countries paid for it.

Papua New Guinea will invoke a two year moratorium on all new logging licenses in July to try to save the forest. But the $70 million in foregone logging income must be made up by rich countries. What are tropical rainforests that hold up to 80 per cent of all species worth to us? Will we who have been so profligate with our forests choose to pay so the poor countries will not repeat our mistakes?

2) Women. Over half of the world's population has been denied access to the competitive, hierarchical and patriarchal power structures of government and business.

Women have a radically different perspective from men, one that is characterized by caring, nurturing, sharing and co-operation, the very traits that will be needed to stave off ecocatastrophe. It is not an accident that women are so prominent and disproportionately represented among the leaders and the rank and file of environmental groups around the world.

3) Youth. Those with the most at stake in decisions being made by governments and in boardrooms of business are youth. After all, they are the inheritors of what will be left. Consequently, they cannot afford to wait until they reach the age to vote.

The Environmental Youth Alliance, an umbrella organization of high school environmental clubs now boasts over 17,000 members. They recently held a three day conference in Vancouver attended by over 600 EYA members from across the country.

Their sense of power and optimism that they can change the world was contagious and they will be a formidable force for change. They are not only informing politicians and business leaders that they want change, they are recruiting their peers and exerting influence on their parents.

Youths forcing change

The EYA has become an international group with dozens of potential member clubs in Australia and there are plans to expand into other countries including the U.S. Youth cannot be ignored.

4) Elders. In our rapidly changing society, human beings become obsolete as we push our elder citizens aside. Yet never before have we needed their experience and perspective more.

It is their memories of what this country and planet were like when they were young provides a living history of the enormous changes that have occurred within the span of a single human life. We need that vision to realize how rapid and disastrous the "price of progress" has from a time when people conserved because they had to.

But it is the experience of elders that is invaluable. They have been through the game of life, know what the rules are and often realize how ephemeral and irrelevant they are. Retired Generals and Admirals against Nuclear War were powerful voices for the peace movement because they had credibility as former participants in the dangerous game of war.

We need "Retired Company CEOs and President for the Environment" to provide the leadership needed to change the priorities of business. Elders are invulnerable to the normal constraints and pressures that inhibit many of us.

B.C.'s wonderfully outrageous "Raging Gran-nies" score many points because they know they have nothing to lose.

5) Indigenous People. In spite of generations of genocide, oppression and exploitation, pockets of aboriginal people around the world retain a relationship with the land and a connection to other life forms that is critical if we are to learn to live in balance with the rest of the living world. These remaining islands of indigenous perspectives are priceless because they can show where we have gone wrong and what we have to regain.

It is time for these disempowered groups to coalesce into an irresistible force for change on the planet.

Pinestone gets $200,000 for marketing program

The Pinestone Inn and Country Club will receive $200,000 in funding from the provincial and federal governments to design a marketing plan.

The Pinestone plans to use the funds in a multi-year marketing campaign. The campaign is targeted at southern Ontario and into the neighbouring United States. It is designed to expand awareness of the resort and conference facilities.

The strategy entails a high-impact print advertising campaign, travel, trade and consumer show participation, public relations and direct sales.

The funding falls under the Canada-Ontario Tourism Development Agreement. This agreement was designed to complement existing tourism programs.

The funding was made available to qualifying applicants for the development of internationally competitive, year-round tourism facilities in the province;

selected planning studies to identify tourism development options and marketing and promotion projects.

The announcement was made by Victoria Haliburton MP Bill Scott last week.

OLD FASHIONED SERVICE IS A PRICELESS COMPONENT OF EVERYTHING WE SELL

No excuse for the broken promise, says Rae

problem" because of the aging population and the geographic isolation.

People requiring long-term care end up turning hospitals into chronic care facilities, said Rae, making it harder to provide acute care.

"There's no excuse for the government breaking its promise," said Rae, especially when the amount of money raised by local fund-raising effort is considered.

While addressing the audience of party faithful, Rae spoke of another Ontario community that has experienced delays in hospital construction.

During the last two provincial elections, Rae said the government has held ground-breaking ceremonies for a new hospital in Windsor, including a sod turning and ribbon cutting. Each time the project was stopped after the election.

With an election call expected this summer, Rae says there are rumours that the government is planning another ground-breaking ceremony for the new Windsor hospital. He called the government's handling of the issue "a disgrace."

The rest of Rae's speech was dedicated to praising Dennis Drainville, who was picked to represent the NDP in the election, and bashing the Liberals and the Conservatives.

Rae said the riding of Victoria-Haliburton has had a Liberal MPP for a long time and a Conservative MPP for a long time previous to that, including Leslie Frost who served as Premier.

"We're prepared to forgive that past," said Rae, "and prepared to overcome it."

Referring to the number of people who turned up at the Dysart Community centre for the meeting Rae said, "If you had told me that 60 or 70 people would be in this hall, people from both counties, I would have told you, you were crazy."

"It is a sign," he said. "The fact that we are all here is an event of some significance."

The Liberals and the Conservative both do a good job on behalf of the interests they represent, said Rae. In the case of the Liberal government, Rae said the provincial insurance companies paid for the Liberals with a $250,000 contribution during the last provincial election and got their money's worth when the new no-fault insurance legislation was passed.

"That law is exactly what the insurance companies were asking for," said Rae. He said the new law will save insurance companies $500 million. "If you give $250,000 and get $500 million, that's a pretty good return on your investment."

"When it comes to defending the interests of working people (the Liberals) don't do a good job," he said. "It's not why they're there."

As far as the provincial Conservatives are concerned, Rae said they will try to distance themselves from the plummeting popularity of the federal Conservative government.

"The provincial Tories will say (Prime Minister) Brian Mulroney is the brother-in-law they never had," said Rae. "But they're members of the same club."

Rae said voters can expect the Conservatives to preach an anti-tax message during the election with promises to freeze or lower provincial taxes.

"Whenever Tories talk about taxes, mention three letters: G, S, T," he said, referring to the federal government's proposed Goods and Services Tax. "Merely mentioning those letters will have a powerful effect on an audience and aggravate the hell out of Tories."

Rae was no less kind about the Liberals' taxation policy.

Referring to the balanced budget handed down by Ontario Treasurer Robert Nixon earlier this year, Rae said the Liberals achieved the balanced budget by shifting fiscal responsibility onto local governments. "Talk to the people who run the school boards and municipal governments in this part of Ontario," said Rae. He said the Liberals' policy has been to "tax people hard, take in more and pay less."

"Look at your property tax bill," he said. "They've balanced the budget on your backs."

Rae said taxation will be a major issue in the upcoming election and the NDP "won't play the baloney of no taxes. If we want hospitals and other services, there's no magic money. We all have to pay for good things."

The NDP platform will be based on the concept that everyone pays their fair share he said.

Noting the struggle the NDP has had in Victoria-Haliburton, Rae said the party has to break through to the constituency.

"We will win this riding," said Rae. "Not by luck but by hard work. We have to talk about the party and the movement we represent and talk about how to build a new hospital and how to pay for it."

With Victoria-Haliburton MPP John Eakins retiring before the election, Rae said the campaign will be an open contest and an opportunity for Drainville to make gains. "My sense is that Dennis' chances are good," said Rae.

It takes just a second of carelessness. All of a sudden that long ladder you're carrying touches a power line. If you're very lucky, nothing will happen. But you could be severely injured. In fact, it could prove to be fatal. Whenever you're doing overhead work, please be aware of power lines on and around your property. Be especially careful if you're working with ladders, cranes, dump trucks, or any equipment that extends. Always look up for power lines. If you are about to start a job where power lines might get in your way, call your hydro first. We'll help you work safely.

Drainville wins NDP ticket

The negativity displayed throughout the Meech Lake debate prompted him to run

by Jay Kerr-Wilson

The man chosen to represent the New Democratic Party in Victoria-Haliburton during the next provincial election says it was the recent Meech Lake Accord debate that prompted his decision to run.

Dennis Drainville was uncontested for the NDP nomination and was named the party's candidate during a meeting at the Dysart Community Centre last Tuesday.

"We live in a time of great cynicism and negativity," said Drainville during his acceptance speech. He said that during the constitutional debate people were looking for "leadership with inspired vision" and instead saw "leaders lurching from catastrophe to crisis."

Although Meech Lake isn't likely to be a major issue in the upcoming provincial election, Drainville said his decision to run was based on a perceived need for focused leadership.

"What direction are we going in?" asked Drainville.

He attacked the Liberal government on its handling of the Haliburton Hospital expansion, an issue which is likely to play a major role in the local campaign.

Drainville said the government was "glad to announce" the expansion of the Haliburton Hospital in 1987 and throughout the county people worked to raise money. "They supported it because it was necessary," he said. "It didn't come from the politicians it came from the grassroots.

"The people of Haliburton County, seeing the need, were able to work together."

With a permanent population of only 13,000 people, aided by seasonal residents, one of the smallest counties in Ontario raised $440,000 through local fundraising efforts, and local government contributions brought the total to $750,000, Drainville said.

"They did it because they had a vision and knew their needs better than the politicians."

The subsequent events which led to the Ministry of Health putting the project on hold "is a story of arrogance and political interference" said Drainville.

"In 1990 (health minister) Elinor Caplan decided to have another needs study," he said. "But the people had spoken."

"Do we need another study? No we do not."

The Liberals "don't care for the people, don't care for the needs of the community and don't care for this county," said Drainville.

Drainville identified the environment as another important issue for candidates to address.

He and there has been a trend lately for politicians to get on the environmental bandwagon. "The bandwagon has gone and the Liberals aren't there and the Tories aren't there," he said.

Giving the riding's rural setting, Drainville said the environment should be an important local issue. "There are problems with mercury pollution, acid rain, chemical spills and water pollution," said Drainville. "We ask for new programs but the government says they don't have the money."

"The environment issue can't go away, creatures are dying and people are unable to live." He said corporate polluters should be paying larger fines than the average $6,000 they are faced with now.

He also targetted the need to have large corporations pay a bigger share of the province's tax bill. "Most people feel they pay too much tax and taxes are going to pay for things we can't support," said Drainville.

Corporations only pay 28 per cent of the taxes collected by the government "and there are people and corporations in this country who don't pay a cent."

Drainville said an NDP government would establish a minimum corporate income tax, eliminate loopholes and ensure an appropriate level of income tax is paid by each person.

"Tax reform is a major issue on the agenda," he said.

Noting the tough time the New Democrats have had in Victoria-Haliburton, Drainville said the party has some advantages in this year's race.

The retirement of Victoria-Haliburton's Liberal MPP John Eakins and the fact that the NDP's election team is ready to go will work in his favour, he said. "We are the first party to nominate a candidate and that gives us a step up," said Drainville.

"We have something to offer," he said. "Hopefully I can win this riding for the NDP in 1990."

Stanhope approves of new road through subdivision

The following issues were discussed at Stanhope's Council meeting Wednesday.

*Stanhope Council has agreed to allow a proposed road through the recently approved Hawk Valley Estates subdivision. The road, approximately 400 feet off County Road 13, is Crown Land and Hawk Valley developers are negotiating with the Ministry of Natural Resources to acquire the land. Stanhope has agreed to let the road be built as long as it is built to municipal standards and becomes part of the municipal road system.

*An application for a dock by Sandy Lane Resort has been denied. The Hall's Lake resort owner Joachim Matysek did not receive approval from his neighbours for the plans. In fact, five neighbours disapproved completely. Council had no option but to put the application back to Matysek to work out with his neighbours.

*Cavan township needs a dump. A letter from Cavan township stated that area has no designated dump site and it is looking to neighbouring townships to provide a dump site. Stanhope flatly denied the request.

*Constance Island on Kushog Lake is being rezoned for severance. The island is currently zoned Rural but the three joint owners of the island want to sever the land and for that to occur, the land must be re-zoned to SR2 (seasonal residential 2).

The island, approximately 20 acres in size, will be severed into five or six parcels. The reason for the severance is increasing family sizes; the owners decided it was time to specify who owns how much of the land.

Dysart surprised at new regulations in the position to carry out the analysis and the municipality would have to hire a consultant for the task. He said the cost of the procedure would be funded by the ministry at the same level as the sewage plant's operation.

The Ministry would help develop the terms of reference for the monitoring and would assist with the analysis of the results, said O'Neill.

Another condition of the ministry's approval is that Dysart undertake a Pollution Control Plan (PCP) for the portion of the Drag River system within the municipality.

The PCP is a detailed study of the system's water quality which would ensure the long-term health of the waters, outline the nature, cause and extent of water pollution problems, propose remedial measures and recommend an implementation program.

The results of the PCP, which the ministry requires by April 1992, will determine if resorts will be allowed to expand beyond their current size.

Fearrey asked O'Neill if resorts would be allowed to expand if they used septic filter beds instead of hooking onto the sewer system.

O'Neill said the ministry would not approve the expansion under those conditions because the filter beds would still be affecting the lake environment.

And if the resort sewer line does not proceed, O'Neill said the resort owners will still be responsible for upgrading their sewage disposal systems.

"In other words, they're caught," said Fearrey. "They have to make a risky business decision."

Deputy-Reeve Lloyd Leadbeater said once the initial study into the expansion was completed by Dysart's consultant's last year, council thought that would be enough.

"We figured that would be it, someone would say 'yes' or someone would say 'no'," said Leadbeater. "We seem to have gotten half a yes."

He said resorts will have to go out on a limb to finance their portion of the sewer line costs without the guarantee they'll be able to expand. "They'll be spending money and if the resorts can't add on, we'll end up looking pretty silly," he said.

Councillor John Parish called the process a game of "Russian roulette" and said "it's like we're in a paddle boat paddling backwards."

Council passed a resolution to call for tenders on the project and have called a meeting with involved resort owners for tonight (Monday).

Fearrey said council had to meet with the resort owners to "put the cards on the table" and see if the will still exists to proceed with the sewer line.

The township has a commitment for $1 million in funding from the process to start the project but if the expansion doesn't begin this year, O'Neill said there's no guarantee the money will be available next year.

Hypothermia caused 25 per cent of boating deaths

Hypothermia, caused by cold water, is an insidious killer, thought to be responsible for one quarter of all boating deaths.

Hypothermia, which is a decrease in body temperature, kills people in cold water by reducing their ability to swim or stay afloat. A person in cold water can eventually die of cardiac arrest if he is not rescued and rewarmed.

Cold water chill 25 times faster than cold air. To minimize the effects of hypothermia, people are advised to attempt immediately to get back into the boat or climb onto the overturned boat. They should not remove their clothes. Clothing, even wet, will hold in body heat.

If a person in the water can't get back in the boat but is wearing a lifejacket, he should assume the heat escape lessening posture. The arms are crossed over the chest, ankles crossed, knees drawn up to the chest, hands kept high on the shoulders or neck. If the hands are kept out of the water, they will stay warmer and more flexible.

People who use small boats in cold water should always wear a well-fitted personal flotation device. It offers both flotation and some protection against hypothermia.

Lifejackets save lives

Most of the people who died in boating accidents last year drowned in inland water; many were within a few feet of safety. Most of those who drowned owned lifejackets, but when they died, they were not wearing them.

People who use small boats are urged to, before leaving shore, ensure that everyone on board is wearing a well-fitting lifejacket or personal flotation device (PFD).

The law requires that each boat must have on board a Department of Transport approved personal flotation device in orange, red or yellow for each person. However, people should be warned that if the lifejacket is tucked away inside the boat and not worn, boaters take a chance of becoming a boating statistic. Most fatal accidents are capsize or falls overboard. They happen suddenly, without warning and with no time to get into a lifejacket.

If boaters fall into the water, lifejackets keep them afloat while they tend to the urgent business of climbing back into or onto their boats or keeping still in the water to forestall hypothermia until help arrives.

Remember, your PFD is the best 'life insurance' policy afloat, but it won't work if you don't wear it! Be water smart.

Public input is essential in fire department start-up on how elaborate the structure would be and how much volunteer labour would go into the construction. "You don't have to go grandiose. You can put up a basic fire hall at a reasonable cost," he said.

Fire protection is not a mandatory service in Ontario, said Coulson. It is up to each municipality to decide if it wants to provide this service. He said council should also be asking itself why it wants fire protection. "Do you want fire protection for insurance (benefits) or do you want it to stop fires from spreading?"

In any case, Coulson suggested the public should be involved in the process. He said it is vital that the residents of the township be given the opportunity to provide input.

"If I was the one given the task of starting a fire department, I'd want a public meeting." He said it is one thing for people to make a verbal offer to volunteer on the department. Actually signing a form provides more of a commitment, he said.

If Snowdon decides to seriously pursue this matter, Coulson said his office would be willing to provide staff to help with a more indepth look at the situation.

Township Clerk Ernie Hills said the matter should be discussed at the next committee meeting to see if there is a solid interest.

Drinking and boating don't mix

When they're out boating, people face a few natural risks—wind, waves and navigational hazards. But the biggest hazard is one the boater can control: drinking.

Most people who die in boating accidents fall out of boats or capsize boats and end up in the water. Once in the water, even good swimmers lose coordination and can drown.

Alcohol affects a person's balance. A moment of dizziness or a misstep may not cause harm on the patio or in a restaurant, but it can spell disaster on a boat.

A small boat is unstable in the best of conditions. Entering or leaving it or moving around in it is hazardous even for a sober, agile person. People seldom notice problems with their balancing ability after a drink or two, but a small tippy boat does.

If that's not enough warning, you should know that impaired boating is just as serious as impaired driving and convictions carry the same penalties. You could also lose your driver's licence.

Lakefront Paradise: While creating dream beach with a dock you may also be destroying natural habitat

by Carol Moffatt

For many people, even paradise needs a helping hand. Shoreline improvement applications are growing in numbers but the Ministry of Natural Resources has a firm grip on what's happening out there.

Because of the increase in applications, the ministry has hired someone to deal exclusively with shoreline improvements this summer. Peter Muzzi is a Fisheries Biologist on contract with the MNR and he is responsible for the year-and-nay-saying of changes people want to make. "We're well ahead of last year's pace," he said.

Work that needs approval includes dredging, filling, making beaches, building docks, dams and boathouses, and removing rocks, stumps, weeds and logs. Creating a beach without approval can result in a fine of $5,000. The indiscriminate pouring of sand into a waterway can 'sterilize' the water, smothering spawning grounds and plant life. An unauthorized dock, boathouse or retaining wall can result in fines up to $200 per day.

Armed with the day's inspection schedule, hip waders (that leak), stakes for marking beach boundaries, a Polaroid camera and a trusty map, Muzzi spends long hours travelling throughout the county. He averages about 200 km per day and often winds his way through backwoods trying to find cottages and homes with directions only a property owner could understand.

Muzzi's job is to inspect things from a fisheries perspective. His mandate is from the high water mark down and he bases his approvals or rejections on how the proposed changes will affect aquatic life. He looks for certain types of rocks that indicate spawning areas or protection areas for young fish and other aquatic creatures.

However, he is often asked about water levels, the Trent-Severn waterway, how to build docks and a wide variety of other things. "In a way I'm the eyes and ears of both Lands and Fisheries and Wildlife," said Muzzi. If he sees anything that is illegal or suspicious he will notify the Lands Department or Fisheries and Wildlife or whoever would be responsible for dealing with a particular problem.

He considers himself somewhat of a 'point man'. "I'm the only person who talks to these people," he said, meaning he is a face on a government agency, someone people can relate to. Many times, though, he spends entire days inspecting cottage sites, not seeing anyone at all.

If an application comes to Muzzi fully completed, he can usually inspect the site and send the application back to the Lands Department for finalization within week. "As long as it's a complete application form, it doesn't take long," said Muzzi.

A fully completed application consists of the MNR application form, a site plan, a good diagram with exact details of the proposed changes, and municipal and neighbouring property owner approval. Getting municipal approval can sometimes take the most time, depending on when the municipality gets the application. Most municipal councils meet once a month, so if an application is received the day after a monthly meeting, it won't be reviewed until the following month's meeting.

Muzzi said the ministry doesn't reject many applications. "We've said no to seven or eight this year which is double last year," he said. When a decision is difficult, Muzzi will consult with the District Biologist or the District Fish and Wildlife Supervisor. Together they will review the problem and attempt to come to a compromise that satisfies both the applicant's wishes and the ministry's requirements.

However, "there are times when I just have to say no," said Muzzi. Poured concrete docks and concrete retaining walls are simply not allowed. A loose Gabion retaining wall is preferable to a wooden wall which is preferable to a cement wall which isn't allowed at all. A Gabion wall is a pile of natural rocks which looks nice, prevents erosion and is easy to build.

The rocks for a Gabion wall can't be picked out of the water, though. Muzzi said rocks usually provide shelter or spawning areas for some sort of creature and they should be left where they are. When an application for a beach comes through, Muzzi said his inspection will dictate exactly where the beach can go and what kind of sand can be used.

Muzzi often requires an applicant to put filter cloth between the ground and the retaining wall being built. This cloth allows water to move through the rocks but prevents ground soil from eroding into the water. Muzzi carries samples of the cloth with him to show applicants while he explains the need for it.

Muzzi said most people are reasonable when it comes to having plans denied. Some get angry, but the majority are happy with the effort the ministry make to compromise, he said.

Left, Peter Muzzi explains a problem with the plans to Mr. Graham of Haliburton Lake. Muzzi is a contract biologist with the Ministry of Natural Resources who is solely in charge of inspecting shoreline improvement applications this summer. Above, Muzzi shows Graham samples of filter cloth which Muzzi said Graham needed in order to complete his project.

Mapping out the lake

Bill Roszell who has been working on the cottage numbering system and emergency services mapping for the Mountain Lake Property Owner's Association, explained the system to the audience at the annual meeting on July 7. Roszell said he hoped that the signs indicating the access roads and individual cottages would be up by the end of the summer.

How dear to me the people who are thoughtful and sincere,

who always show they care

and understand.

The people who are generous,

who gladly volunteer
a gentle word, a smile,
a helping hand.

How dear to me the people who are fun to be around,
who have a world of joy
and love to give.

How dear to me such people...

for in them I've truly found

good friends to treasure.

Pearl Barry will be at the Bowron Home with her Spanish guitar on Tuesday, July 17, at 1:30 p.m. to sing
heritage songs and talk about early Minden. Children's hour at the Bowron Home is each Thursday at 10 a.m. (refreshments included) and the Minden heritage walk is at 1 p.m. These activities sound most interesting—try to attend.

Mark on your calendar
that the Annual Red Cross Bazaar will be held on Saturday, August 4, 9:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. on the Village Green in Minden. All items for sale are hand-crafted. This is a good time to start buying Christmas gifts.

Jack Henry had surgery
and was in the Peterborough Civic Hospital but by now he will be home. Best wishes,
Jack, and a speedy recovery.

The Kinmount Fire Fighters Auxiliary will be having a 'white elephant' and bake sale July 21, 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. on the Main Street in Kinmount. Proceeds to go to the Kinmount Fire Fighters.

The Stanhope Summer
Bridge was held on July 3, with six tables playing with the following winners: 1st -

Vange Croucher, 2nd -
Virginia Linde, 3rd - Betty Culley. On July 10, with seven tables playing the winners were: 1st - Betty Culley, 2nd - Grace Witzel and 3rd - Vange Croucher.
Next bridge will be Tuesday,
July 17, at 1 p.m. at the Stanhope Fire Hall. Everyone welcome.

Sincere sympathy to the families and friends of Verna Jarvis and Arthur Barry.

Hi Kids!
Here is another puzzle
for you with a word list.
Look in the diagram of letters for the words given in the list. Find them by reading up, down, forward, backward and diagonally.

They are all in a straight line and do not skip letters.
Circle the words in the diagram and cross it off the list.

It's as easy as that. Have fun!

Lady: Shame on you! A big man like you catching poor helpless fish.

Fisherman: Well if the fish had kept his mouth shut he wouldn't be on the end of this hook.

Q: what is the difference between an old penny and a new dime?

A: Nine cents.

Q: What is the difference between a book of fiction and the rear light of a car?

A: One is a light tale and the other is a tail light.

Q: What fish do you find in a bird cage?

A: Perch.

Q: What fish is very useful in hot weather?

A: A fan tail.

Fisheries management program taking to lakes this summer

Resident Sport Fishing Licence Funds, the Environmental Youth Corps (EYC) Program and Experience '90 are helping the Ministry of Natural Resources in Minden District to implement an ambitious fisheries management program this summer.

Increasing development pressures on lakes in the Highlands necessitate mapping of bass spawning areas and video taping of other critical fish habitat. This helps Ministry biologists protect sensitive areas from shoreline development.

Resource Technician Karen Hartley, EYE Technician Stacy Norris, and Experience Student Mike Wray have been busy observing bass spawning activities and mapping nests for the past month.

Another fisheries program underway this year is post stocking assessment netting. Cottagers and fishermen are often alarmed to see crews setting gill nets on area lakes. There's no need for concern, however, as the nets are only set for a short period of time and most fish are released un-harm.

According to David McLeish District Biologist for Minden District, "Post stocking assessment provides valuable information on how well stocked fish are surviving and growing."

With over 100,000 lake trout planted annually it's important to ensure fish are being stocked where they can do the most good. So the next time you see Marcel DeMars Resource Technician, Harland Doige EYE Technician and Chris Brock Experience '90 Student setting a gill net, don't worry, they're there to help.

Other projects planned for this year include adult bass transfers, to help establish populations in barren lakes, water chemistry updates, and sonic tagging of lake trout more on this to follow.

If you do see our field crews out on the lakes and you have questions, don't be afraid to ask.

Leave orphaned animals alone: MNR

Each year at this time the Ministry of Natural Resources receives numerous calls concerning nuisance and orphaned animals.

Wild Supervisor Stan Flemming, the nuisance complaints range from squirrels in an attic to black bears ripping open garbage bins.

"Many of the situations can be rectified by removing the attraction", Flemming said. If garbage is drawing bears, or skunks are burrowing under a porch it is simply a matter of securing the garbage in a closed area or blocking access to the residence.

If the animal has to be removed, the best method is to live trap it and transport it to a rural setting. "Live traps are available for small animals from the M.N.R. office or local rental outlets and the ministry has live traps for the removal of black bears when required", he added.

Simply sighting a wild animal does not make it a nuisance", he cautioned. "Unless it has destroyed property or there is good reason to believe it will cause damage, animals must be left alone. "Wild animals are an integral part of the Haliburton Highlands and people have to make an effort to live in harmony with them", Flemming said.

"In the case of orphaned animals, people generally mean well", Flemming said,

"but in most cases the mother is close by and will collect her young when the coast is clear. The natural instinct is to pick up the young animals and provide for it", he added "although more harm is done by removing it from the natural environment and transferring human scent to the animal."

According to Flemming, the best advice we can give is to leave the animal alone.

For further information, or copies of pamphlets on how to deal with nuisance wildlife contact the Ministry of Natural Resources at Minden, Ontario, K0M 2K0, or call 705-286-1521.

Micro hazards

by Doreen Hawman

The Canadian Standard Association warns that drying herbs in a microwave oven could present a potential fire hazard.

A consumer recently reported having experienced a fire in her microwave oven while drying herbs on a paper towel.

Inquiries were made and it was learned that the fire could have been due to arcing of naturally occurring minerals in the herbs. The low moisture content of the herbs and the combustible property of the paper towel could have contributed to the fire.

One manufacturer has now removed instructions for drying herbs from its instruction manual, and no longer recommends the practice.

Another microwave oven-related concern has been expressed about potential salmonella hazards, when cooking poultry. To destroy salmonella germs requires that chicken be cooked at a specific temperature for a specific length of time. Because oven size and power output of ovens vary, CSA recommends you contact your oven manufacturer for advice about the temperature and length of cooking time. Copies of the CSA booklet "The Consumer" are available free of charge from your nearest Information Centre.

Annual flower show on its way

Time! Yes time tells us that the Minden and District Annual Flower Show is not far away. In spite of late frosts, cold and inclement weather, caterpillars, leafhoppers and cut worms, the Minden Horticulturalists are very optimistic about the 1990 show being held August 9 and 10 in the Minden Community Centre.

The theme for this year's show is "A Time for Flowers". Prize lists are available and the cover depicts time (i.e. A Time to Sow; a Time to Hoe; a Time to Show.) That's what Horticulture is about.

If you look about our village you can see the many flower beds, tubs already planted by members of this Society to beautify our town to encourage others to do likewise.

Horticulture Meetings are held on the first Tuesday of each month in the Agnes Jamieson Gallery at 7:30 p.m. These meetings vary—some with excellent speakers, demonstrations, slides, and some with members participation (arranging, planting fall bulbs, door and room decors). Everyone is welcome and you don't have to be a member in order to attend.

Each year we have over 200 members—not all active of course.

Now that planting is past, we are making great plans for this year's show. There are numerous categories for single entries (i.e. pansies, asters, gloriosa daisy, gladiolus.)

The Decorative Class is always one of interest. The exhibitor arranges his or her flowers, foliage etc. to relate to the title. This year the subject of the arrangements relate to time:

Tea Time: design in a cup and saucer

In Times Past: arrangement in an antique container

In The Good Old Summer

Time: an all around design These are but a few.

Fruits and Vegetables—yes there is a section for these—you may have in your garden a winning tomato, zucchini, onions, etc.—but there's no prize unless they are brought to the show!

Children we haven't forgotten you. Once again there's a list for exhibitors 16 years and under. Ever heard of a Ninja Turtle? Well you can make one and enter it in the show—also a Collection of Tree

Leaves to be mounted and named.

So folks out there, get a prize list and make plans to enter. There are a few rules—but they are easy. We need and want your entries. Prizes are awarded on Friday afternoon at the end of the show.

The Official Opening is at 7 p.m. Thursday, August 9.

Exhibits may be brought in from between 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. on the Thursday. Judging begins at 1:30 p.m. that day.

Rain report

The following report on precipitation events was recorded at the Ministry of Environment acid rain testing station in Dorset and compiled by Environment Canada.

This report covers the period of July 1 to July 7, 1990.

There was no rain this week.

Environmental damage is usually observed in sensitive areas regularly receiving precipitation with pH less than 4.7. Readings of 4.0 pH or less are considered dangerous. The lower the reading, the more acidic the precipitation.

Safety guidelines often left at home, says Maybee

by Susan Wilson

It would be fair to say that the agenda of the 13th annual meeting of the Mountain Lake Property Owners' Association, held on Saturday, July 7th, at the Wild Water Preserve clubhouse, covered the waterfront.

OPP Community Relations Officer Mike Maybee spoke about water safety, crime prevention, and emergency assistance. Vern Gilbert, president of the Horseshoe Lake Property Owners' Association, made a special presentation about recent zoning changes on that lake. There were also reports on incorporation, cottage mapping and signage, water quality, and pollution control.

Mike Maybee pointed out that the majority of people who come to Haliburton in the summer are here for a good time. Consequently, they tend to forget sensible safety guidelines they would never forget at home. "There are several accidental, preventable deaths every year," he noted. "Big kids and adults have big toys—toys you can die with. And emergencies only happen at the most inconvenient times and usually in the most inconvenient places."

Maybee urged those present to familiarize themselves with how to call police, fire, and ambulance services. He noted that the Minden Detachment is part of a new toll-free phone number: 1-800-461-6488. This number gives the caller direct access to the police radio operator and their new radio system allows a phone link between the caller and police cars.

After thanking Maybee for his time and advice, association president Michael Mahoney reported that incorporation of the organization requires only a few signatures to complete. He presented a slate of officers for the next year which was unanimously approved. It was agreed that the new executive should look into resurrecting the system of area captains on the lake to develop membership and to assist in finalizing the mapping and numbering of lake properties.

Bill Roszell has been responsible for developing this system. He reported that he consulted with the OPP to ensure that the scheme implemented is the most useful one from the emergency services' point of view as well. "We are now ready to make the signs," he said, expressing the hope that they might be up by the end of the summer.

"WHERE THE ACTION IS"

Mountain Lake water quality is still good

Derwent Lewis reported that the water quality in Mountain Lake remains good. He also mentioned that he has seen a dramatic increase in the number of gypsy moth caterpillars around his cottage this spring. In spite of the fact that the Ministry of Natural Resources was reportedly eager to learn about such increases, Lewis found the response of officials "unenthusiastic".

President-elect Bob Hurrell described an appeal hearing he attended in May regarding a neighbour's inadequate sewage system. He reported that the meeting took three hours to hear the evidence before coming to a decision to close the cottage until the system is up-graded. "Both the government and the appeal board tried to be very fair to the applicant," he said. "It was a good process with an extremely capable chairman."

Horseshoe Lake Property Owners' Association president Vern Gilbert was then invited to talk to the meeting about the proposed change of zoning for the Blairhampton Golf Course from Open Space to C4. "There are several uses permitted on C4 land that are not permitted on Open Space," he noted. "These include accessory dwellings, bed and breakfasts, hotels, motels, lodges, private cabins, and tourist camps. The current owner of the golf course says he does not plan to do any of these things, but the next owner might."

"We are also concerned about the change because the lakefront abutting the golf course is designated hazard land and marinas are permitted with that zoning. With these two designations beside each other, it's not hard to imagine the kind of development that might ensue and that would be disastrous for the wildlife that live behind Shuyler's Island."

Gilbert reported that the municipal zoning committee had approved the change 4-1. The next step would be a vote at the July 12th council meeting. Gilbert announced that, if council approved the zoning change, he expected his executive would be filing an objection, a move that leads automatically to an Ontario Municipal Board hearing.

Gilbert reminded the Mountain Lake executive that incorporation is a prerequisite for appeals to the OMB and asked them as well to consider joining in a meeting of the presidents of the nine lake associations in the township of Anson, Hindon, and Minden which was being contemplated.

CARD OF THANKS

Thank you for the memorable "Surprise Party" for my 75th birthday! To Wayne and friends for the use of their lovely home; the super buffet, and everyone who helped to make it special. Thank you to my children, grandchildren, relatives and many friends who attended. You really made my day! The two birthday cakes were delicious; thanks Ellie and Melanie! Then there were so many beautiful gifts and gorgeous cards - And to top it all off, a grand microwave stand from my family! How trite a mere "thank you" seems in comparison to such an overwhelming day of surprises and happiness. But—thank you all again! With love to all,

Mary Coltman

The family of the late Charlotte Fry wish to express their sincere appreciation to all those who gave their love and support in the loss of a dear wife and mother. First thank you to Rev. B. Parker for his comforting words, to the nursing staff at Ross Memorial for their excellent care and also to Hyland Crest staff for their care and concern. To all those who donated food and especially to Judy Burch for all her help. Also to the ladies of the St. Peter's A.C.W. who provided a delicious lunch after the funeral. Thank you to all of you who gave such beautiful flowers and also for the gifts to Hyland Crest Bus Fund. Finally to Gord Monk and family for their excellent service and kind words of sympathy. To all of you, many thanks. Mama is gone, but we will remember her always.

Lorne Fry, Bill, Jack, Viola, Betty, Murray.

The Royal Canadian Legion 636 - Ways & Means Committees - would like to thank all those who contributed to the success of their Annual Yard Sale. 7C

WORTH WAITING FOR!!

Allana Marie Coburn finally made her debut on Wednesday, June 27, 1990 at Peterborough Civic Hospital at 5:28 p.m. weighing 7 lbs 6 oz. She joins the happy clan of Jacqueline and Murray Coburn, overjoyed grandparents are Gino & Margot Ziorjen of Minden and Murray and Helen Coburn of Mississauga. The proud great-grandparents are Anne Hopcroft of Weston and Herbert and Edith Fischer of Coquitlam, B.C. and the ecstatic great-great-grandmother is Charlotte Steuerwald of Zell, Germany. Not to mention all of her aunts and uncles too numerous to list but thrilled just the same. Allana and her parents wish to give special thanks to Dr. Tina Moga, Dr. Bos, Linda, Jim and all our friends and family who have welcomed her with open arms.

IN MEMORIAM

KELLY, FITZROY. July 14, 1989.

If I could have a wish come true, I'd wish for yesterday and you.

Sadly missed by Annie & family.

KELLY, FITZROY. July 14, 1989

Too dearly loved to be forgotten.

Sadly missed by Liz & family.

IN MEMORIAM

MISCIO, BERNICE & ALFRED. Bernice, July 16, 1989; Alfred September 2, 1989. In loving memory of Dad and Mom.

God broke all our hearts to prove to us
He only takes the best.
And the best parents he did take from us

Just a year ago since that sad day

When the ones we loved were taken away;

God took them home, it was his will

But in our hearts they will always be.

They were always there to guide you along

They were always there when you needed them

You could talk to them about anything

What we would give if we could say,

Hello Dad and Mom in the same old way;

To hear your voices, see your smiles,

To sit with you and chat awhile.

Nothing can be more precious Than the memories we have of you both

To us you were so special
God must have thought so too

Your last parting wishes
We would like to have heard,

And whispered in your ears
We Love and will miss you both

More than words can ever say

IN MEMORIAM

Our last parting words Dad and Mom

Wherever your spirits have taken you,

We wish you both peace and happiness together

And when old times we do recall, its then we miss you most of all

In each one of us there is part of you both

That no one can ever take from us

We will Love and miss you both

Always in our hearts,
Mike, Waneita, Tereasa, June, Tony, Dona and spouses and grandchildren.
